Congregational Memory Hymn: Church School Memory Hymn:

"Christ for the World We Sing"

The Hymnal—No. 372

"O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee"

Christian Hymnways—No. 172

The Emphasis: INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

In this month falls most of the Epiphany Season, the "making-Christ-known" season. With October dedicated to missions in the homeland, January is devoted to missions beyond the seas.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

The great commission, "Go ye into all the world" has never been abrogated by the Master. The days for missionary enterprise are not over and gone. The disruption of the work in some areas and the recalling of missionaries are but depressions in the undulating country over which the conquering armies of the Lord are marching. The Epiphany season, celebrating the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles, gives to pastors the opportunity to create an international mind and a world outlook. The world is one, humanity is one family.

ADULTS

Get a globe or draw a map of the world. Locate our mission fields and through our church literature, learn some of the needs and make a list of them. Present these to some adult group in the church and initiate a plan to meet some one or two of them. A monthly meeting of the group or class can be made very much worth while. It would be opportune to become better acquainted with our South American neighbors.

YOUTH

Work with your Consistory and church school officers in their plans for observing International Missions Sunday and for supporting our missions financially. Prepare for the study of the missionary emphasis during February by all your youth groups, consulting Youth for detailed suggestions on worship, discussion and other activities.

CHILDREN

This is the time to start the "World Neighbor Plan" with your children if you have not already done so. Encourage the children to adopt a "neighbor" as suggested in the plan, and to make a group scrap-book of "Our Church at Work in the World."

THE BROTHERHOOD

The men of the brotherhood use the first meeting of the year to discuss such plans as may be in keeping with the program of the whole Church. Study the present conditions in those countries where our Church is handicapped by the war, and what our members are doing to bring help and encouragement to suffering fellow-Christians.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Have a report of the Christian World Mission Convocation held in Cleveland, Ohio, December 6-10, 1942. If it is not possible to have a report from a delegate to that meeting, arrange to have a speaker give to the whole church some glimpse of the problems discussed at that conference.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Consult your pastor about organizing a stewardship committee in your congregation in which all major groups will be represented. This committee should accept responsibility for developing a yearly program of stewardship education and promotion as a vital part of the church program.

Congregational Memory Hymn:

"Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken"

The Hymnal—No. 249

Church School Memory Hymn:

"Breathe on Me, Breath of God"

Christian Hymnways—No. 79

The Emphasis: CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

By action of the General Synod the period from January 1 to March 15 is assigned to the promotion of Christian stewardship, culminating in the annual Stewardship Essay and Poster Contest.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

The principle of stewardship is basic in the Christian life. It acknowledges that God is the sovereign owner of all things; that man is a steward, and must give an account for all that is intrusted to him. A long-range program in stewardship with conferences in the Synods, is planned. Pastors should challenge youth to the stewardship of life. The need of ministers to fill our thinning ranks demands recruiting for life service. The liberal giving of time, treasure and talent is a means of grace for the enrichment of the spiritual life.

ADULTS

Study the Stewardship program of our denomination. Better still, become acquainted with the principles of stewardship. Encourage the children and young people in your own home in this direction by guiding table talk and conversation into an informal discussion of how the entire family can take its full share of responsibility for the work of the Kingdom.

YOUTH

Buy a few good books on stewardship; pass them around in a certain order among all your young people, so that each person reads one book. Encourage your group to adopt one or more World Neighbors.

CHILDREN

Even small children can learn to give systematically to the work of the church. Children should be encouraged to set aside some money gifts each week for the work of the local church as well as the church at large. The Church School Message envelopes will stimulate planned giving.

THE BROTHERHOOD

Since many of our sons and brothers are gone and since the Church will need leaders and teachers in coming years, it must be of foremost importance to win and develop the boys in our midst. Our members should consider these boys as entrusted subjects and in every way possible cultivate a solid and firm foundation in church life.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Be prepared to sponsor the Annual Church Stewardship Essay and Poster Contest, or to cooperate with the church school in promoting it. Inform Guild members of the Stewardship Department Scrapbook Project of the Women's Guild for this year and encourage their participation.

CHRISTIAN STEWARDS

Participate in the annual Stewardship Essay and Poster Contest by writing an essay or making a poster and encourage others to do so. Materials for every age group will be sent free to every pastor by Dr. William E. Lampe, 1505 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.

EMPHASIS AND OPPORTUNITY CALENDAR

MARCH, 1943

Congregational Memory Hymn:

"Saviour, Thy Dying Love"

The Hymnal—No. 470

Church School Memory Hymn:

"Are Ye Able?"

Christian Hymnways—No. 119

The Emphasis: EVANGELISM

Looking forward to Palm Sunday and Easter, through Lent catechetical classes are busy and congregations are putting forth every effort to win others for Christ and the Church.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

The primary function of the Church is the preaching of the Gospel with the view of winning others to Christ. Evangelism is one of the priorities of the Christian life. Every pastor, with his people, will have a year-round program of Evangelism. The Lenten season is regarded by the Church as the pre-eminent season for the ingathering of souls. An intensive Lenten program of souls. Every congregation should be an evangelistic force in the community, made effective by the enlistment of every member for prayer and soul-winning.

ADULTS

Speak to your minister and offer your help in reaching one or two persons on a "prospective members" list. Agree to make yourself responsible for winning of these to Christ and the Church. Invite a neighbor or friend, who does not have a church home, to special Lenten or evangelistic services. Buy an extra copy of a daily devotional guide and present it to them.

YOUTH

Read the pamphlet, "Helping Other Young People to be Christian," by Harner; also the section on "We are Evangelists All the Time" in the pamphlet on "Youth Work in the Local Church." Work with your pastor in securing new church members. Promote the use of our youth devotional book, Windows of Worship.

CHILDREN

New children are moving into many communities. In public school these children are becoming the pals of children of your church. Encourage the children to bring their pals along to church school. The added invitation of an interested teacher will bring many unchurched children into the church. Study the pamphlet "Evangelism and Children."

THE BROTHERHOOD

The most important phase of Brotherhood work is to deepen the spiritual life of its members through evangelistic efforts. The season of Lent is especially well adapted to this end. The special Lenten services offer our men a challenge to "go out in the high-ways and by-ways" and bring them in.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Call upon new families in the community to invite them to share the fellowship of the church. Visit those families where interest is lagging. The Women's Guilds might undertake a religious census or a Bring-One-to-Church Campaign in cooperation with other organizations in the church. Each member of the Women's Guild should attend a World Day of Prayer Service on March 12.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Endeavor to win souls for Christ and the church by inviting your friends to attend church and by speaking to someone each week about making a decision for the Christian way of life.

EMPHASIS AND OPPORTUNITY CALENDAR

APRIL, 1943

Congregational Memory Hymn:

"The Lord of Life Is Risen"

The Hymnal—No. 172

Church School Memory Hymn:

"Living for Jesus"

Christian Hymnways—No. 154

The Emphasis: FAITH TRIUMPHANT

The seeming deadness of winter is disappearing before the new life of spring, and in our church observances the sorrow of Holy Week and Good Friday gives way before the joy of Easter.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

Easter proclaims the triumph of the Christian's faith. The faith of the early Church was postulated on the resurrection of our Lord—"If Christ hath not been raised, then is your faith also vain." "But now is Christ risen" was the burden of the Church's faith and message, and under its compulsion the disciples went forth with a conviction that turned the world upside down. There is no place for doubt in the life of the Christian today. Positive prophetic preaching will nourish the faith which triumphs over defeat and death itself.

ADULTS

Take a pencil and paper and note the things you really believe. Think them through. Note any change in your thinking. You may use the creed as a guide but go on to asking yourself why you hold to this faith. This will help you to be more sure and you will be able to help others because of it. Friendly discussions help clear the mind and heart.

YOUTH

Present a good Easter play. A list of recommended plays may be secured from the Board of Christian Education. Cooperate with young people of other churches in conducting an Easter Sunrise Service. Visit and comfort those who mourn.

CHILDREN

Children of the Church need to know intimately members of the church who have cultivated a strong faith through the years. Grandfathers and grandmothers, the sick and the shut-ins are frequently these people. A child's understanding of God is deepened through fellowship with them. Provide opportunities for the children to learn to know these people by carrying to them flowers, bulbs, or songs, poems, stories learned in their classes.

THE BROTHERHOOD

The April meeting finds our members associating with other groups of men with common interests. Who is my neighbor? This question will help us to consider the blessing of Christian fellowship and cause us to respect the faith and worship of others.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Plan a Lenten Quiet Hour Service for all the women of the congregation during Holy Week, using the service prepared under the auspices of the Department of Spiritual Life of the Women's Guild, if desired. Make preparations early and give the service effective publicity in the community.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Send an Easter greeting to the members of your congregation serving with the armed forces of our country.

The Emphasis: FAMILY LIFE

Beginning with Mothers' Day, which many churches now observe as The Festival of the Christian Home, the month leads on toward Children's Day early in June. How appropriate that in our Evangelical and Reformed Church this month is set aside for an emphasis on Christian Education, which is the task of the Christian home as much as it is the task of the Christian congregation!

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

God's first institution among men was the family. Out of the family grew the first church and the first state—making the family basic in the social order. Family life is endangered today by many foes. The sanctity of the home must be preserved if the other institutions of society are to be maintained. Religion in the home antedates its expression in the Church and in other walks of life. The Christian home is the salt which preserves Christian civilization. Think and speak of mother's love, service, sacrifice and guidance.

ADULTS

Some families plan a night a week when they agree to spend the evening together. A little planning of songs and games and contests will make the evening most worthwhile and the entire family will find added joy in fellowship. Set aside a few minutes for family or private worship. Provide a good guide for the various age groups found in the family.

YOUTH

Help to arrange church meetings for the whole family, such as "Family Night." Observe Young People's Day on May 16, using the materials prepared by the Board of Christian Education. Prepare to send delegates to camps and summer schools.

CHILDREN

Children can help to carry the Christian spirit into their homes. Help them to plan ways of making family life more Christian. Parents and children together should plan ways of remembering God in their homes. Encourage the children to have grace at meals, family devotions, and especially planned family activities, as those suggested in the United Christian Education Advance.

THE BROTHERHOOD

The Christian family is one of the pillars of a strong nation. Since it is the goal of the Brotherhood to have a family altar in every home, and since so much material is offered for family worship, our men will stress this fact during May, and help our men to see their God-given duty as priests of the home.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Cooperate with the church in its observation of the Festival of the Christian Home during Christian Family week.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Undergird the religious foundations of your family life by beginning or renewing daily family devotions. Dr. Cushman's book "I Have a Stewardship" is highly recommended for this purpose.

The Emphasis: YOUTH

The observance of Youth Day in our denomination, the coming of Children's Day on the second Sunday of the month, and commencements in schools and colleges, combine to center our interest in the problems, responsibilities and promise of Youth.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

The hope of the world lies in its youth. Youth is not a problem, but a promise. Special days in the church serve to lift the children and youth into the high place and consideration which they deserve. They are the church and the nation of tomorrow. The emphases of the Christian home, Children's Day and Youth Day constitute a logical sequence of fundamentals essential to a Christian world-order. The proper training of youth for life is wrapped up in their education, and pastors will direct them to the institutions of the Church, and aid them in the choice of their life's calling.

ADULTS

Christian Youth needs and wants nothing quite so much as adults who will help them understand life and how to make the most of it. Commend young people and encourage them in their work. Seek out young people and help place them in the way of service. Your word may be the starting point to fine Christian service. Help send them to summer training camp or school.

YOUTH

Work with your Consistory and church school officers in planning for Children's Day. Welcome home those who return from academies, colleges, and seminaries, and invite them to take part in your summer program. Complete plans for camps and summer schools.

CHILDREN

Children want to know that they are an important part of the church. They like to do grown up tasks like taking the offering, passing out worship services, etc. Children's Day provides an opportunity for these children to make their own special contribution to the church family.

THE BROTHERHOOD

Youth month finds our program calling for "boys' night" in the Brotherhood. Vacation time is here for the boy and idleness is the greatest danger to an aimless vacation. In the June meeting the boys should be enlightened to the possibilities of a worth-while vacation. Men become boys when in their presence.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Present to the Women's Guild the program and purpose of the Girls' Guild. Perhaps the members of the Girls' Guild can do this themselves through a specially prepared program. See that a World Day of Prayer for Missions of the Evangelical and Reformed Church is held in your church.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Assist young people in choosing a Christian college in preparation for their life work and encourage all young people to make stewardship their guiding and controlling philosophy of life.

The Emphasis: CHRISTIAN PATRIOTISM

Independence Day offers an opportunity for a Christian interpretation of patriotism, participation in community celebrations of our national birthday, and a study of the relationship between love of our country and love for the Kingdom of God.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

We must distinguish patriotism from nationalism and from party politics. The mission of America in this world crisis makes the devotion and loyalty of its citizens a pre-requisite. True patriotism surmounts all class, racial and religious prejudices, in the interests of freedom and democracy—in the interest of the truth which makes men free. America was founded by men who believed in God. Men who believe in God will preserve it today.

ADULTS

The adult members of the Christian Community have it largely in their hands to determine the right balance between religion and patriotism. They are also the ones who will distinguish between the noble and ignoble qualities of the nation. They may further good will in the community by being friendly with members of other racial and religious groups, and so prove that America stands not merely for itself but for principles that are as broad as the world and as brotherly as humanity.

YOUTH

Read the pamphlet "Youth Action in Christian Patriotism," (15 cents) by Stock, for excellent suggestions about study and action. Consult Youth for appropriate topic material.

CHILDREN

Christian patriotism knows no national boundaries. During this month help children to know and appreciate Christians of every land, such as Kagawa, Schweitzer, Muriel Lester, Sun Yat Sen, Chiang Kai-shek, etc. Encourage the children to express their own Christian patriotism through gifts to the Christian Fellowship of Compassion.

THE BROTHERHOOD

The Nation's birthday calls for a pledge to the ideals of our country. The meeting during July should bring to our attention the blessings of America, and the debt we owe to God and country. An open air meeting with the entire family present could be arranged with visible results.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Present one urgent local problem such as child delinquency, the poll tax, anti-Semitism, conditions among relocated Japanese in this country, civilian and defense camp communities, or whatever local situation is urgent in your community, to your Women's Guild. Also read aloud in a Guild meeting the Bill of Rights from the Constitution of the United States.

Provide the opportunity for underprivileged children in your congregation to attend one of our summer camps.

The Emphasis: RECREATION

This is the month of vacations, and followers of Christ will wish their days of leisure to be in actuality days of re-creation, so that they will come back to their daily work and to their church responsibilities with new strength and vision.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

Recreation literally means "re-creation" by coming into contact with the vital and vitalizing forces of life. Nature speaks a varied language but to the soul that is "in tune with the Infinite," it speaks of God. Our camps and conferences call us. Play constitutes a real part of life's program, and to play together is often as timely as to pray together. Recreation in the strength and quietness and calm of the hills and dales, rivers, seas and forests—all of them echoing "God"—will send us back, refreshed and renewed in body, mind and spirit to the tasks that await us.

ADULTS

Your adult group may plan for an evening of fun and fellowship at the church or for an outing in the open. The heads of families may plan an evening a week or month for family fun and recreation. As many meetings as possible should be held out-of-doors during the summer. An evening around the campfire would be most pleasant and healthful.

YOUTH

Buy The Fun Encyclopedia, by Harbin, which is the best guide for recreation leaders now available. Include men of the armed forces in your planning for socials and parties.

CHILDREN

Adults and children learn to know each other best through informal fun and fellowship. Summer time provides rich opportunities for such fellowship. Plan such trips and occasions with your children that even those who know not a vacation away from home will say "We had a grand vacation," and will know the recreative joy of Christian fun and fellowship.

THE BROTHERHOOD

The need and value of recreation form the thoughts of this month's meeting. The need, because even Jesus invites his followers to "come ye apart and rest awhile," and the value, because through proper recreation the soul learns to give and to take in a real Christian spirit. Recreation to be included in the month's program.

WOMEN'S GUILD

The August monthly meeting of the Women's Guild might be held out of doors in some lovely picnic spot. Since the Girls' Guild is studying the same topic as the Women's Guild—community life and organization—the Girls' Guild might be asked to share in this meeting.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Include in your vacation reading some books on Christian stewardship. The following are suggested: "Will a Man Rob God?" (Cushman); "The Horizons of Stewardship" (Weber); "Save Money" (Versteeg); "Christian Materialism" (McConnell)

The Emphasis: THE MINISTRY

Our denominational Board of Pensions and Relief is allotted this month to promote interest in providing some security for aged and infirm ministers and their dependents. It is a good time to seek to understand, not only the worthy need of such as these, but the life, work and problems of our ministers generally.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

In unselfish devotion the Christian minister serves his God and his Church. "They who preach the Gospel should live by the Gospel." The state and industry provide for its aged and invalid folk. The Church must provide for its aged servants and for those whose strength has failed. The high calling of the ministry deserves the element of "security" which an adequate pension will assure. "The laborer is worthy of his hire" even to the end. No minister of Christ can ever be fully paid for the service which he renders, but none should ever be allowed to suffer want.

ADULTS

How much do you know about your minister's work life, his program of duties and his problems? How lately have you stayed after service or sought a special occasion for conversation about the program of the church? You would gladden his heart by doing so. How largely are our seminaries attended by young men? Are we going to have enough ministers for our churches? Do you know a young man in your congregation with qualities fitted for the ministry?

YOUTH

Ask your pastor to speak to your group about the work of the minister. Get the literature of the Board of Pensions and Relief and discuss it at one of your meetings, inviting one of the members of the Consistory to help.

CHILDREN

At the church the child's best friend should be the minister. Frequently the adults of the church demand such a large block of the pastor's time that little or no time is left for the children. Adults must "share the minister" with the children if they would expect children in later years to take upon themselves the work of the church. Parents and adult leaders can cultivate the child's appreciation for the minister through conversation and deed.

THE BROTHERHOOD

During this month's meeting the men study the various seminaries and colleges of our Church. The program for the next few months to be outlined, and men urged to take a renewed interest in the work of the Church.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Stress Women's Guild support to the denominational Board of Pensions and Relief as a part of The Women's Guild Challenge. (See leaflet "A Venture in Sharing").

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Enlist organizations and individuals in support of the Student Aid Fund of your Synod for the training of worthy students in preparation for the Christian ministry.

The Emphasis: NATIONAL MISSIONS

This month each year is set aside in the interest of what formerly were called Home Missions. In city slums and underprivileged areas, in rural and urban congregations not yet strong enough to support themselves, in situations where special need for Christian service arises, our Board of National Missions carries on an extensive program in Christ's name.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

Ours is a Christian nation in name only. Vast areas of our population and life remain unchurched. We must "reach the unreached," and none are unreachable. Never was there a greater need to Christianize the frontiers of life than today. Our shifting population, our new industrial communities, our paganized standards of life, loudly call for a more aggressive program of missionary effort at our very doors. The city, the rural community, the stranger in our midst, make the strongest appeal to the Church for the support of an expanding and adequate program.

ADULTS

From the Board of National Missions data concerning the number and location of mission churches may be obtained. Use a monthly meeting to present these facts. Make a list of the social and recreational institutions in your community and check them for favorable or unfavorable influence. Determine where you can lend encouragement or correction.

YOUTH

Work with your Consistory and church school officers in their plans for observing National Missions Sunday. Study your own community to find opportunities for Christian service near at hand. Be alert to the needs of those who move into the community to do war work.

CHILDREN

Missionary concern must begin at home. Help your children to appreciate and to be friends to the children of unprivileged areas of the community and especially to the children of another race. Encourage the children to adopt as "World Neighbors" children of one of the National Missions projects.

THE BROTHERHOOD

National Missions to be discussed by the men in the October meeting. Learn what charges are in your own Synod and what the needs are in the Church regarding this phase of the work. Know about the great movement of people from one section of the country to another, and what the opportunities are for spiritual development.

WOMEN'S GUILD

The October meeting should be a union meeting of The Women's Guild and the Girls' Guild in your church. Emphasis this year needs to be given to the work of the denomination in defense industrial centers and camp communities.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Organize a class for the study of Christian stewardship in connection with the midweek church night or the Sunday morning church school.

The Emphasis: KINGDOM SERVICE

The third and fourth Sundays of November are designated for the Kingdom Roll Call (every member canvass) in our denomination. If this work is to be done effectively and the response of church-members is to be generous and ungrudging, it will be only in proportion as, being made acquainted with the great world-wide program of service the EVANGELICAL AND REFORMED CHURCH is carrying on, they come to feel that they are privileged to participate in the finest venture this earth and all history have ever witnessed.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

Our support of the cause of Christ, as represented by the causes of the Church, is expressed through the Kingdom Roll Call. Contact every member of the Church and enlist every one for definite service and support. Lay the whole program of the Church upon the conscience of every member. Stewardship sermons, distribution of literature, pastoral letters and wide publicity will prepare the way for a successful Roll Call.

ADULTS

Some adults will share in planning for the Kingdom Roll Call. Others will help conduct the visitation. Help spread the information that will make it a success for the local church and for the benevolent causes.

YOUTH

Let your officers sit with the Consistory in planning the Kingdom Roll Call. Let young people be members of the visiting teams. Let your pastor or a member of the Consistory interpret the Roll Call to your group. Pledge to raise a reasonable part of the total church budget.

CHILDREN

Children might like to make a poster showing how the money raised in the Roll Call will be used. A scrapbook "Our Church at Work" would tell of the work of the local church. Study the pamphlet, "Children and Our Church." Ask Kingdom Roll Call visitors to help children know themselves a part of the church fellowship by giving special attention to them.

THE BROTHERHOOD

The Brotherhood offers its members for the Kingdom Roll Call. Thanksgiving Day should find us grateful for this opportunity. Father and son banquets during November. Election of officers.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Members should remember that they are first of all members of a congregation and that their financial responsibility lies first to the apportionment of their church and second to the Women's Guild. This is also the time for the public ingathering of the thank-offering.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Make your pledge on the basis of God's word, which required a tithe (a tenth) in the Old Testament and a definite proportion of our income in the New Testament ("as God has prospered you"). Surely Christians cannot accept a lesser challenge than the Old Testament Hebrews, who knew not Christ.

While we are celebrating God's giving of Jesus to the world, our heart-strings and our purse-strings are attuned to the spirit of sharing. It is a good time to think about the barriers of race and class and nation and creed, and about ways in which, in the spirit of Jesus, we can break down these barriers and build new bridges of brotherhood among men of good will.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

PASTORS

The Christmas spirit is in the air, and if ever there is a time when "others" are on our minds and hearts it is at the season when we anticipate and celebrate the birth of Christ. God first shares His Son with us that we might share our lives with Him and with all men. It is a strange paradox, but true, that we have only what we share with others. The poor, the widows, the orphans, prisoners and captives, the hungry and cold, look to us to help them in their need, and what we do unto the least of these we do unto Christ.

ADULTS

The orphanages of our Church depend largely upon gifts at Christmas time. Special calls for food and clothing are frequent in the community. Every church group should seek at least one such need and help satisfy it. Hospital calls, sick calls, gifts of flowers, will help brighten the season and bring joy to the giver.

YOUTH

Give friendship and money to the poor. Give money to the War Emergency Relief Fund. Give to the Fellowship Fund of the Youth Fellowship. Give friendship to people of other races and nations; visit their churches and invite them to your meetings. Present a good Christmas play. The Board of Christian Education will send a list on request.

CHILDREN

Help children to share Christmas joys through song, poem, story, Scripture (or another way of their own thinking) with sick and shut-in members of the congregation and of the community. Encourage them to participate in the White Gift offering.

THE BROTHERHOOD

Before the year comes to a close, it is well for the men to take stock of the year's efforts. What are the fruits of our work? Here, too, we want to share with others in the spirit of the Christ, and help the unfortunate to feel the warmth of the Christmas season.

WOMEN'S GUILD

Members should keep informed about the benevolent institutions of our Church and their needs. Visit any which are near by and get acquainted with the workers who have responsibility for them.

CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Check your progress in Christian stewardship during the past year (a) in giving for the advancement of God's Kingdom, (b) in the use of talents and skills in Christian service, and (c) in the acceptance of God's sovereignty of all life. Plan to be a better steward of Christ next year.

REKINDLE THE DIVINE GIFT

A Message from the President of the Church

THESE are days in which the faith of the individual Christian and of the entire Church is put to the test. Even as I write I am aware that as yet this does not in the same measure apply to the great majority of American Christians, or to the Church in our land, as it is true in other sections of the world. Nevertheless it remains a fact that our faith is being tried by the awesome events which have now immediately involved our people in the horrors of a terribly devastating war affecting all nations. In a world and a time such as this the Christian needs a quickening of his faith so that he may remain loyal to his Lord. So too the Church needs to concern herself in new devotion with her divine commission to bear witness unto all men that in the gospel of Christ is found the hope of reconciliation and the redemption of life.

In every land of the world men are perplexed and troubled. Almost too horrible to contemplate is the suffering which has come upon millions of members of the human race. All of these we as Christians are accustomed to think of and know to be a part of the one family of God. Fear has laid hold on the lives of countless millions as they contemplate the present and attempt to comprehend what the future may have in store of them. As followers of Christ we have a source of assurance and of hope which sustains us in every dark hour. When our faith grows weak and fear would rob us of our hope, we may well consider whether it is not because we have failed to be loyal to our calling. With this in mind, I would bid you to consider the words of Paul, written to his young friend Timothy: "Hence I would remind you to rekindle the divine gift; for God has not given us a timid spirit, but a spirit of power and love and discipline."

I prefer to consider the last word of the quotation first. Christians everywhere are in agreement that the terrible visitation which has come upon men is the direct result of the failure on the part of people everywhere to put themselves under the discipline of God. It is equally true that we, who are of the Church, are ready to confess that we have failed in our own lives to rekindle ever anew the spirit of discipline. Now the well deserved judgment of God has come upon us and the whole world. It seems but yesterday that the Church boldly confessed its conviction that war is sin. It would have been more to the point if we had recognized that war is the result of sin. Today we humbly confess that it is the sin of all men and, in very truth, our own sin which has brought this day upon us. Accordingly we find ourselves in a repentant mood. But repentance will be of no avail unless it is more than a looking backward, causing us to bewail our lost opportunities. If the repentance we confess is genuine, it must lead to a rekindling of the spirit of discipline. That means a renewed and more earnest inquiry after the will of God and a really sincere dedication to the doing of His holy will, not only for the present, but for all the future. Repentance which is less than this is no repentance at all. This, however, definitely implies that the members of the Christian church need take their Christian profession more seriously than has been true in the past. Not only by the spoken Word, but by our daily walk of life we need give evidence that the spirit of God has laid hold on us and overrules our thinking and our action.

With equal earnestness do we need heed the admonition of Paul when he bids us rekindle the spirit of love which is God's gift to us. War engenders and fans the spirit of hatred and revenge. That has been true of all wars and it is true today. Against this the Christian is pledged to take his stand. Since the spirit of discipline, too, is God's gift to him, he will oppose evil not only when it threatens to enter his own soul, but whenever it crowds in upon his life from sources outside of himself, and whenever it threatens to engulf the lives of others; but hatred has no place in the heart of a true follower of Christ. It is, however, not this negative aspect which concerns us primarily. Much more are we disturbed by the thought that the spirit of love, which needs express itself in active service, may not have been rekindled as it should have been in the lives of the people of our churches. Outstretched hands plead with us from every corner of the world. The homeless and destitute, the depressed and imprisoned, those clamoring for a crust of bread, and those hungering for the Word of life; all these claim our love. Have we answered this cry for help as we should? The appeal has been transmitted to us in words which have eaten into our souls by the Commission on War Emergency Relief. Indeed we need rekindle the spirit of love within us. It is the gift of God. Moreover we need prepare the hearts of others to receive this spirit of love as a gift from the Heavenly Father, so that when this terrible conflict at last shall have come to an end, men may find a way of life which alone can lay a foundation for a lasting peace. As Christians we ever dream of a day of human brotherhood. We have dedicated ourselves to the task of hastening the coming of that day. It will not and it cannot come unless you and I first rekindle within us the gift of God, His spirit of love.

Finally, Paul has one more word of advice to Timothy. He bids him stir up the spirit of power. That too is the gift of God. This word has a familiar sound in our day. Nations engaged in total war, draw upon every available source of power in order that victory may be theirs. It is also a familiar word in the Christian's vocabulary. As you read your Bible you will find it recurring constantly. Power is truly the gift of God. Boldness characterized the first followers of Christ. They believed in and were aware of the power of the gospel. They went their way, not as slaves slinking timidly through the night, but as free men, yes, as conquerors walking in the light of day. It is this spirit that we need rekindle within us as followers of the Christ. Indeed, we need recapture it in a much greater measure than we now possess it as a Church. It is then not enough that we repent of our past sins. Again it will not suffice that in a day such as this we prove our love by occasionally giving alms. We need recapture the faith which firmly accepts the gospel of Christ as the power unto salvation for all who believe.

This redemptive power we have experienced as operative in and through our lives. Thus alone have we come to profess the name of Christ. Thus have we been brought into the fellowship of the Church. But this power of the gospel unto salvation once experienced needs constantly be rekindled by a quickening of our faith, which is a ready acceptance of God's gift. I am pleading with my readers, therefore, to be instant in prayer and diligent in the use of the Word of God and the sacraments. There is no other hope for the world of this day, or any other day, than that which is found in the gospel of Christ. The proclamation of this gospel is entrusted to the Church. The voice of a timid church will not be heard. With power need we witness as individuals and as a divinely instituted Church to the message of salvation. This is possible only if as individuals we rekindle the spirit of power through a more intimate communion with God whose grace in Christ alone can make us bold in a day when danger besets us on every hand.

Greatly do I find myself tempted to plead for a more general and generous undergirding of the whole program of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. Your Church is determined that the service which she has been permitted to render in the past shall suffer no curtailment. Indeed, she finds herself confronted with new claims on her faith and love. The challenge which thus comes to her she gladly accepts, for she would be loyal to her Lord. Our only appeal shall be that you rekindle the divine gift which you have received, even the spirit of power and love and discipline. Thus will we be assured that you will dedicate yourself in new devotion to the high calling and the blessed opportunities for service which are yours as members of Christ's body, the Church.

This is the day of opportunity for the Christian church. It will be the day of great conquests if you and I are not ashamed to testify to our Lord and His gospel. By His grace we will do it with power. With the above in mind we would stimulate our faith by reminding ourselves of that which Paul further writes to Timothy: "Of that gospel I have been appointed a herald and an apostle and a teacher, and this is why I suffer as I do. Still, I am not ashamed of it; I know whom I have trusted, and am certain that He is able to keep what I have put in His hands, till that great Day." This great day is the day the Church looks forward to in faith. It is the day of the coming with power of the Kingdom of God, which is the rule of His righteousness, and love, and peace.

L. W. Goebel.

SCOTLAND AND HER KIRK

BY HAROLD E. DITZLER

MOST of our readers will know that our church belongs to THE WORLD ALLIANCE OF REFORMED CHURCHES HOLDING THE PRESBYTERIAN SYSTEM. The same is also true of the Church of Scotland. At present, Dr. Wm. F. Kosman of Salem Church, Allentown, Pa., is chairman of the Western Division of this Alliance. In 1933 when Dr. George W. Richards visited our home in Edinburgh, he came directly from Belfast, Ireland, where he had presided as president of this World Alliance, and where Dean W. A. Curtis, professor of New Testament in the Post Graduate School of the University of Edinburgh, had served as vice-president.

Thus the Church of Scotland is not a strange faith in a strange land, but a sister communion of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. It was the writer's privilege to worship and to minister in the Church of Scotland from 1931-34 and it is largely from this background that he writes.

The home of the Reformed Churches was Switzerland. The Church of Scotland had its chief links in this connection through John Calvin and John Knox in Geneva. Germany also is a part of the common background of these two denominations for John Knox lived and ministered at Frankfurt-on-Main prior to his organizing the Scottish Church.

The year 1560 determined Scottish history, for the "Scots' Confession of Faith" and the "First Book of Discipline" were then prepared. Knox and his like-minded companions did not set up a new church, they organized "A REFORMED CHURCH OF CHRIST IN SCOTLAND." After 1561 Knox had numerous quarrels with his Catholic sovereign, Mary Queen of Scots, and during this time Protestantism had its ebb and flow, but in the end Knox was the victor and in 1567 the Reformed Church was established in Scotland.

Three secessions took place in the history of this church; the first in 1733, the second in 1761 and the third in 1843. Then came two unions. In 1900 the Free Church and the United Presbyterian Church formed the United Free Church of Scotland and in 1929 this latter Church and the Church of Scotland formed an organic union which now makes the Church of Scotland a communion of more than a million and a quarter members, in a country of six million inhabitants.

Among the minority religious groups of Scotland are Catholic, Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, Congregational, Unitarian, Christian Science and the Wee Free Presbyterian which remained aloof from the unions of 1900 and 1929. But since the Church of Scotland is the established State Church and forms such a preponderant majority, it is this body alone to which we refer in this article on Scotland and her Kirk.

Before we seek to apprehend differences between our own church and the Church of Scotland, it might be well to point out that marked differences exist within the Church of Scotland; just as differences exist within our own denomination. Especially is this true concerning the liturgy or form of worship.

The former "Free Churches" have a very free form of worship, in which even a read prayer is foreign; whereas the former established churches are invariably "High Church," where prayers are read (some for the dead), where offering plates are lifted three times before the altar and where the mace is as essential in the processional as the minister. Of the latter, St. Giles Cathedral in Edinburgh is a superb example, while St. George's West Church in the same city is the most famous of the free churches.

Another marked difference within the Church of Scotland is the degree of liberality or church support given by the former free churches in contrast with the former established churches. The big reason for this is the fact that the established churches were, and still are, land-tax supported. The former free churches are not so supported and never were.

The following experience illustrates a specific instance of land-tax church support and a difference in customs among church-going people of Scotland and America.

I was preaching one Sunday morning in a former "Free Church" in North Berwick, a seaside resort on the east coast of Scotland. After the service an elder invited me to his home for dinner. He was a farmer and after a ten mile drive we arrived at his farm, where the entrance gates gave one the impression of a luxurious estate. The home was like a mansion, surrounded by lovely flowers, large lawn and tennis court. Shortly after our arrival, a maid called us to dinner, whereupon my host apologized and said, "I'm sorry that we must dine alone, but my wife and daughter flew to the French Riviera yesterday to spend the weekend." After dinner we walked about the farm and visited first of all the little cottages in which live the five families who do this man's farming. (There are few one-family farms in Scotland.) Then we went out into the fields. Taking me to a spot on top of a hill, he said, "This is the county line, which also equally divides my farm. You see in the distance two parish churches which lie in the same counties as my farm. My land-tax for the support of those churches is over 100 pounds ($500) per year for each church. If I went to either church I would have no church dues to pay. I go to neither, as I prefer the Free Church in North Berwick. For my support there, I match what the government assesses me in land-tax for each established church." Here then is one Scotsman who pays the equivalent of more than $1500 per year for church support; who is assessed the first thousand, but whose religious preferences or principles cost him the added amount.

There is another custom in the Church of Scotland in which the members in general support congregations of which they are not members. I refer to The Maintenance of the Ministry Fund, whose object is three-fold:—(1) To provide for an efficient and highly-trained gospel ministry, (2) that financially strong congregations support weaker ones, and (3) that a minimum stipend of 400 pounds ($2000) and a manse be provided for every minister of the Church.

In missionary zeal and gifts, the Church of Scotland is at its best. During the world depression of a decade ago, the Church of Scotland increased its missionary budget and number of missionaries, while most other denominations in other lands were recalling missionaries and curtailing budgets. Even now, in spite of war-time conditions, new missionaries are being recruited and sent out to numerous foreign fields.

Before we turn our attention from the Church-at-large, perhaps a little more should be said about the nature of the Church of Scotland as a state church. The King as head of the state is regarded as the titular head of the state church. In England he is head of the Anglican Church and in Scotland he is head of the Presbyterian Church. Thus the King ceases to be an Episcopalian when he enters Scotland and proceeds to his royal pew in St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh. Since these visits are few and far between his office is more honorary than active and it remains for the pageantry of the General Assembly to keep the Church fully conscious that it is a state church. The General Assembly meets each May in its own building on The Mound, in Edinburgh. In back of, and about eight feet higher than the moderator's chair, is the King's Gallery. Here again, the King seldom if ever presides, but appoints each year his representative, known as the Lord High Commissioner.

THE CHURCH IN THE LOCAL COMMUNITY

For the purposes of evangelization and pastoral oversight, the Church of Scotland has created Parish Churches and divided cities and towns into parishes which are determined by territory rather than communicant membership. Thus a whole community comes under the systematic impact of the church.

The law of the land requires that "Intentions of Marriage" have to be given at the register's office or at the Parish Church, before marriage ceremonies can be performed. Hence at some church services the minister will read one or more Proclamation of Banns—"There is a purpose of marriage between John Smith and Mary McKenzie, etc." The writer has married as many as three couples in one evening at the Parish Church, all being members of the parish but none members of the church. One difference in the marriage ceremony between America and Scotland is that here a ring or rings may be used, while in Scotland a ring is as necessary as a bride.

The history of the church parish in Scotland dates back to 1844 when the celebrated Dr. Thomas Chalmers began the movement by choosing the slum area of West Port, Edinburgh, as an experimental field. During all these years the work of visitation, education, charity and evangelism has been carried on.

The most recent experiment to assist the local church with its program of community evangelism is being carried out under the leadership of Dr. George F. MacLeod, who resigned his pastorate in the Govan Church in Glasgow to organize a Protestant monastery on the island of Iona. It was to Iona that St. Columba came in 563, bringing Christianity to Scotland from Ireland; and after setting up a monastery, lived there for 34 years interrupted only by missionary journeys.

Dr. MacLeod takes graduates from Scotland's divinity halls and gives them a year or two at Iona. For six months they study and work at the rebuilding of the ancient church and monastery; during the remaining six months they return to the towns and cities of Scotland and go into the parishes two by two, to help the local church win men and families for Christ.

THE LOCAL CHURCH

In Scotland most congregations, like most communities, are divided into districts. In St. George's West we had forty districts with at least one elder and one deacon for each district. The elders visited the homes of their district at least four times each year; prior to each communion they took out communion cards which communicants deposited at the church on the day of communion for the purpose of the Communion Roll Record. The deacons visited their districts monthly at which time they collected the money for the "Maintenance of the Ministry Fund."

The local church, other than the former established land-tax supported churches, is usually supported from three different sources. The first is free will offerings, which in St. George's averaged $250 per Sunday. The second is the rental of church pews. The front pews bring the highest rental and are greatly in demand. St. George's seats 1500 people, yet there is a long waiting list of persons desiring to rent pews. In the congregational year book there is a request that members shall not seek to rent more space than is absolutely required for the use of the family. All pews are reserved until ten minutes before church time when unoccupied seats are made available to the public. The third source of support is from pledges to the Schedule (pronounced shed'ule), usually collected through deacon visitation, or sent directly to the treasurer.

The Scotch are great sermon tasters

and have a peculiar knack for remembering sermons preached months or even years before. One big difference between sermons in Scotland and those in America is that the Scotch prefer read sermons. Dr. James Black, the present minister of St. George's, reads all of his sermons almost word for word, yet so well does he do this, that I have heard Americans saying—"To think that a man could deliver a message like that without a note!"

In the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, the Scots observe pew communion with the majority favoring real wine and the common cup. In St. George's approximately twelve hundred persons commune in the morning when the common cup and wine are used; in the afternoon between 300-400 commune when individual cups and grape juice are used. Strong convictions are held concerning the above differences.

Scotland still has the family pew because, for the most part, they still have the family. There is no adult Sunday School in Scotland so the family goes to church as a unit. After the children's sermon, the children quietly leave the family pews and go to their morning hour. (We would call it Church School.) Juniors and Intermediates have their Sunday School from 3-4 p. m. Young People's classes are held at 12:30 and 6:30 p. m.

Instead of a Confirmation Class that lasts many months, the Church of Scotland, like the Presbyterians in America, has A Young Communicants Class that seldom continues more than six weeks. In view of the fact that Presbyterian churches add many thousands of new members each year and our denomination had an average annual gain of only 824 from 1938-41,—we might have something to learn at this vital spot.

Other differences include the singing of the psalms and paraphrases in Scottish worship; and the office of the beadle, who is usually the church sexton dressed up in white tie and formal morning coat. (Ministers and elders usually go to church in formal dress including high silk hats.) It is the beadle who first enters the pulpit before service, carrying the Bible, the hymnal and the Psalter. He then ushers the minister into the pulpit. At the close of the service the minister does not go to the door to greet the people. He goes to his vestry and all persons desiring to speak to him proceed to the vestry. This vestry visitation usually lasts from ten minutes to an hour.

AS OTHERS SEE US

In 1939 Dr. Norman V. Hope, professor of Systematic Theology in Rutgers Theological Seminary, wrote an article for the official publication of his native Church of Scotland. The article was called "The American Church: Has It Anything to Teach Us?" After listing some positive lessons he said, "One thing, by way of warning, the American Church can teach us, concerns the custom of church suppers. Apparently some churches go on the assumption that the army of the Lord marches on its stomach, but I agree entirely with Mr. Philip Guedalla who says—'Uneasy lies the church that wears a cafeteria'."

Dr. Hope also wrote, "If there is any difference between American and Scottish preaching, it is this: the American Church realizes, with an even greater vividness than does the Church of Scotland, the fact that Christianity has profound social as well as individual implications. Of course such an emphasis does not deny that 'the soul of all improvement is the improvement of the soul'; but it does mean that if Christianity ends with the individual, it ends."

THE BOOK OF WORSHIP

BY SCOTT BRENNER

THIS article is addressed to the eight hundred thousand layfolk of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. It is not written for the clergy, though of course there will be no objection if they scan it, as it were, over the shoulder of some layman or laywoman. As the author pens these words he has in mind the friendly light streaming from a farm house in Missouri and of the farm family gathered together in that brief hour after the chores are done and it is not yet time to retire. He is thinking also of a worker's home in Detroit where the family seldom gets together, where the children go to the movies after the home work is finished, where mother goes out to the church or the club for the evening, and father contented himself with a little relaxation and a little reading of the daily paper or the weekly labor news. And he is mindful of a school teacher somewhere in Eastern Pennsylvania and of a cozy home warm with the color and gaiety of Pennsylvania-Dutch living. On the library table there are papers and journals and books. Many of these people do not read as much as their parents did, nor is their devotion to the Bible and the Church and the things of God as sure and warm as in generations past; and yet their lives would be terribly barren should they be denied sacraments and sermons, Bibles and hymnals, and the grace of God as it is communicated through the channels of the Church.

For the most part the farmer and worker and the teacher each reads papers and books after his kind. The Bible is not excluded but frequently its repose is not disturbed for a long period of time. The Church paper scarcely gets a hearing. The eyes and the ears of the farmer and the worker and the teacher are only occasionally turned toward the Church. This is not as it should be. Surely if the Church is to minister to our needs, and if we as Christian laymen or laywomen are to bear testimony to the saving power of the gospel, and in the confusion and chaos of these days are to lift up Him who is the Light and Lord of men, the Judge and Saviour of the world, we must strengthen ourselves through the reading and hearing of his word, by the reception of his sacraments, and by personal, private prayer, and social or collective worship in the House of God. The Church paper would remind us of the Church, the Bible would prepare us for worship and work within the Church, and—now we come to the object of this article—The Book of Worship would both prepare us to meet our Lord in the beauty of his sanctuary and would provide the medium whereby God's truth and grace may be made available unto us in divine service.

ITS USE AT HOME

We have The Book of Worship. It has been approved by the General Synod for the use of the whole Church. A copy of The Book of Worship of the Evangelical and Reformed Church should be in every Evangelical and Reformed home. Portions of it may be used in the family devotions. It should be by the bedside of the ill so that when the pastor calls and the Holy Communion is celebrated, the entire family may have an active and vocal part in the service. All of it should be read and studied. The various services and the congregational responses should be known so that one will have no difficulty with the use of The Book of Worship in the church. Just as in the dark a man is able to find his way about his own home, so in the church he should know The Book of Worship so well as to follow and participate in the service even though he does not at the moment have the book in his hands. The Book of Worship is a tool which is designed to make the technique of community or congregational or corporate worship possible. We utilize a tool most effectively when we are so accustomed to it that we are no longer conscious of it. The Book of Worship will for a long time remain an awkward and difficult tool for us unless we take it into our homes for study and for use.

A generation or two past, the prayer book or "Gebetbuch" was in every Christian home and in every Christian heart. Whenever and wherever the prayer book has been neglected, personal and family devotional life has tended to falter and fail. Let us make use of The Book of Worship in our homes. Let us use its prayers, its litanies, its confessions. Let us read the Epistle and Gospel, the Introit and Collect for the coming Sunday, and thus prepare our minds and hearts by pondering the same texts and considering the same thoughts and truths as are engaging our pastor in his study. Let us go to church prepared and thus relieve our pastor of attempting for us certain preparatory and introductory adjustments which we can the better attend to ourselves. We have The Book of Worship. Let us place it in our homes and use it until it places itself within our hearts. Concerning The Book of Worship it can be said, Blessed are they who shall come to know it by heart.

ITS USE IN THE PEW

While The Book of Worship should be in every home, it is essential that it be in every pew. The Book of Worship is primarily designed for the pew. It is the Church Book for the use of all within the Church. Because this is its nature and mission the Presbyterians call their Church Book "The Book of Common Worship," and the Lutherans "The Common Service Book" and the Episcopalians "The Book of Common Prayer." We may think of it as a means to worship, service, or prayer, but it is always common worship, common service, common prayer. It is the book of the common man, of the layman—of the farmer, the laborer, the teacher to whom this article is directed. It enables the common person to have an active and vocal part in the public worship of Almighty God. When you enter a Church and find a prayer book or service book in the pew, you have before you a kind of Magna Charta which proclaims the right of the common man to have part in the worship of the Church, to pray and not only listen to prayer, to praise God and not merely listen to the choir, to form with his own lips words of confession, of petition, of praise, of thanksgiving, of dedication and consecration.

Martin Luther struck out boldly at the sacerdotal powers of the Roman priesthood when he reaffirmed the "priesthood of all believers." Christian worship must be of and by and for the people. The Evangelical and Reformed Church cannot well be content with a kind of worship in which the minister says it all and does it all. When and where that is the case the pastor is obliged to become a kind of sacerdotal bottle-neck almost as offensive to evangelical practice as the mediaeval Roman folly in removing the service both from the participation of the people and the understanding of the people. Our people must not be trained to go to Church and then stop, look, listen. The singing of hymns is a great blessing and we rejoice in our hymn heritage, our new hymnal, and our congregational singing. But it is not enough that the people shall join only in the hymns. They must also join in the prayers and the whole of the service. Evangelical worship is the whole worship of all the faithful as they stand before their God. When we enter our church we must remember that our purpose is to worship God and we must be ready to avail ourselves of every opportunity to have part in the common worship of the congregation.

ITS FORM AND PURPOSE

In recent times it has become the custom of some churches to prepare and to give to the worshipper each Sunday a bulletin containing the order or program of worship for the day. This is being done because many churches have rightly concluded that the common man of the pew must have a greater part in the worship. Unfortunately a number of these service bulletins have attempted to provide the worshipper with an ever-changing worship experience and to proffer something different and novel and perhaps something "catchy" for each Lord's Day. This is an ill conceived striving after variety and novelty that serves only to add to the tyranny of the minister as the leader in worship and to the confusion of the congregation. The worship program or order, it must be remembered, is not an end in itself. Considered from the human point of view it is a tool or a means whereby man may realize the divine presence, and in the void of human loneliness and helplessness hear the sound of that voice which wakes the dead, and know the touch of that hand that can heal all our diseases and strengthen and deliver us according to all our needs.

The order of our corporate worship is a means to an end; it is a tool. We do not provide the worker with a new and different tool each time he goes to the shop. Should we follow such a practice the worker would achieve little beyond becoming accustomed to the new tool or gadget. His thought and energy would be expended upon his equipment and not upon his mission. Or to think of it in terms of music we may state the same truth in this manner. Just as a player of an instrument is not able to appreciate truly its music until he has succeeded in freeing himself from enslaved attention to the mechanics of the art, so the people in the congregation will never know the full joy of congregational worship so long as their attention is centered upon the mechanics of what is to provide a novel worship experience. The so-called free service has always tended to become fixed and even static in its structure and movement, and this is as it should be.

The more social and common and corporate worship which is possible only with a Book of Worship likewise emphasizes the fixed and constant as over against the varied and novel. That great liturgical scholar of the former Reformed Church, the Reverend Dr. John W. Nevin put it thus,

"Novelty and variety may stir the understanding, or please the fancy; but they have no power to feed the inward life of the soul."

In that section of The Book of Worship which is entitled "The Church Year" there is ample provision for that limited but necessary element of variety which will provide an escape from monotony and will at the same time serve to stir the understanding. We lay-folk should not expect something new and different in the way of worship each Lord's Day. Rather we should make faithful use of that common and constant tool, The Book of Worship. We should become expert in the use of it, for its purpose is to prepare us not as individuals but as a group, as a congregation, to meet our God—it is to open our eyes and our ears and to make ready our hearts that they may be tabernacles of the Most High.

ITS PRAYERS

But we must keep close to that farmer, laborer, and teacher with whom we started out. I fancy I hear one of them protesting, "But I don't like prayers that come out of a book. I want my pastor to pray out of his heart." And another chimes in, "Why should he read prayers for me? I can read my own." The faithful and universal use of The Book of Worship throughout our Church will not and should not exclude the practice of extempore prayer. Nevertheless free prayer or extempore prayer seems best to serve its purpose when its range and frequency are carefully restricted and when it is used only to supplement the traditional congregational or people's prayers commonly called liturgical prayers. The practice of extended and repeated extempore prayer cannot be justified upon historical grounds as a rightful practice within the Evangelical and Reformed Church. It is not a part of our heritage. The Prussian Agenda of 1821, parent rite of the Evangelical Synod, and the Palatinate Liturgy of 1563, parent rite of the Reformed Church, make no provision for extempore prayer. From the year 1563 to 1677—for one-hundred-fourteen years—only liturgical prayers were authorized within the Reformed Church. In the year 1677 the Synod of Cleves granted ministers the privilege of using prayers not prescribed within the liturgy. The wise action of the Synod of Cleves reads as follows:

"For the better edification and comfort of the ignorant, the customary formularies shall on ordinary occasions, in connection with preaching be adhered to: still freedom shall be allowed, at special times and occasions, to add some things to the ordinary prayers, agreeing with the Scriptures and the matter of the forms prescribed."

In our Church we would do well to make this ruling of the Synod of Cleves our norm as regards congregational prayers. In this and in other aspects of our worship we should maintain and magnify our own heritage. The Book of Worship will enable us so to do.

But to come back to the objection that the prayer must come from the heart and not the book. It simply is not true that if a prayer is read it must be devoid of the sincerity of the heart. If you have been accustomed to offer in the Church School or any other assembly of the faithful a strictly extempore prayer, after you have finished it ask yourself the content of your prayer and the purpose of each petition. Ask yourself "What have I said? What have I prayed? What have I asked? And why did I ask it? And why did I not ask so and so?" It may be that you will not find the answer to these questions easy, for the fact is that extempore prayer may be rooted deeply in neither head nor heart. It may lack that depth of sincerity and reality that can be arrived at only by means of honest reflection and studied preparation. How different the whole experience of corporate prayer might be if both the pastor and the people knew a week in advance the prayers that would be offered the next Lord's Day and by sober and patient study and reflection had fitted themselves and their needs into the common prayers of the Church. The pastor might well experiment along these lines by praying each day the whole week through the prayers he will use at the coming service; praying them with all his heart, his mind, his strength; and while he is offering the petitions he might also lift up before the throne of grace this one and that one of the parish according as he understands their particular and urgent needs. The prayer book can be so used as to give sincerity and reality and wings to every petition.

And speaking of prayers, a word must be said about the "Amen." The "Amen" is a liturgical or people's response which the Christian Church inherited from the synagogue and temple worship. The word may be translated as "verily" or "so be it," and its use is to signify the assent of the people to the prayers or doxologies that have been offered unto God. We must not permit the minister to monopolize the use of the "Amen." It belongs to the people. It is a congregational response. We do not ask the pastor to sign our names to our checks and we should not expect him to sign our consent to our prayers. Let the "Amen" be sung, said or shouted. In the words of Holy Writ "let all the people say Amen." The "Amen," and the other responses as well, ought to be of and by and for the people.

ITS BACKGROUND

The Book of Worship is the official medium of common worship within the Evangelical and Reformed Church. There may be those who, basing their judgment upon local or parochial practice, will counter, "Yes, it is official but it is not really ours because it is not true to the heritage and spirit of our Church." Such an opinion, if there be any such, is not based upon fact, and time will prove that it cannot stand. Let us for example turn our attention to the two chief services of The Book of Worship. "The Order for the Holy Communion" is primarily based upon the former Reformed "Holy Communion Service" in "The Order of Worship." As the "Order for Holy Communion" confronts us in the new Book of Worship we have a Reformed form greatly shortened and yet marvelously enriched by the inclusion of certain Evangelical Synod forms. On the other hand the new "Order of Worship" which is to serve as the morning worship of the Church is primarily based upon the Evangelical Synod heritage. This service strictly speaking is an ante-communion, or an incomplete communion service, and as such it testifies to the rightful centrality of the Lord's Supper in Christian worship. But it also stands in its own right as a work of liturgical artistry. It is derived in large part from "The Prussian Agenda of 1821," the parent rite of the Evangelical Synod.

To be specific, in the morning service alone the Evangelical Synod contributes to the Church the Confessional Service, Kyrie Eleison, Gloria in Excelsis, the Collect for the day, the Epistle and the Gospel for the day, the Creed, Lord's Prayer, and the Benediction. All of these were parts of the Prussian Agenda. Most of them were also common to Reformed usage. In like manner we might study the other services. The conclusion we would be obliged to reach is that The Book of Worship is "bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh." And yet in a larger sense it is also ecumenical or catholic, that is, it belongs to the whole Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is this ecumenical spirit and form which makes it not only our prized possession but causes our Presbyterian, Lutheran, Congregational, and Episcopal brethren to rejoice with us. It has received the warm approbation of liturgical scholars in Canada and England as well as in our land. Here then is a Book of Worship that is worthy of the whole Christian Church, and if we use it and treasure it as we should, it may be a means of healing our many unhappy divisions and realizing that unity and oneness of Christ's Church which ought to obtain throughout the whole world.

THE HOLY COMMUNION

In our study and in our use of The Book of Worship special attention should be given "The Order for Holy Communion," for when we have part in the Holy Communion or Holy Eucharist we enter into "the inmost sanctuary of the whole Christian worship." Here we are confronted with our Lord's own service and with his desire concerning the manner and mode of our common worship. From its very beginning the Christian Church obeyed the command "do this in remembrance of me" and observed the Lord's Service each Lord's Day. For some centuries the Lord's Supper was the normal manner of Christian worship and all the faithful with zealous care frequently partook of the Holy Communion of the Body and Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ. But then came a period of decay and decline and the communication of the common man was discouraged until at length it had become a wide-spread and intrenched custom in the Roman Catholic Church for the faithful to have part in the Holy Communion but once a year. This infrequent participation of the common man in the celebration of the Holy Eucharist was one of the causes of the Reformation, and Luther and Calvin were one in the desire that the Church Evangelical and Reformed should make the Holy Communion the norm of common worship for each Lord's Day. In his "Institutes of the Christian Religion" John Calvin traces the gradual decline in Holy Communion on the part of the common people of the Church and he asserts:

"At least once in every week the table of the Lord ought to have been spread before each congregation of Christians, and the promises to have been declared for their spiritual nourishment; no person ought to have been compelled to partake, but all ought to have been exhorted and stimulated, and those who were negligent, to have been reproved." (Book 4, Chap. 17, Sec. 46.)

In other words John Calvin, and Martin Luther as well, desired that the Church of the Reformation retain and maintain the primitive and traditional practice of making the Holy Communion in truth the "inmost sanctuary of the whole Christian worship" and the norm of congregational worship each Lord's Day.

Surely our infrequent celebration of the Holy Communion tends to make it an awkward intrusion upon our normal worship procedure and can be justified neither by the practice of the primitive Church nor by the desire and design of the great Reformers. It may also be that it is responsible to some extent for the spiritual anemia which is the besetting illness of our times. As branches we must not be severed from the vine, that is, from our Blessed Lord by failure either to hear his word or receive his sacraments. As laymen and laywomen we should not neglect the Lord's Table. We should have part in every celebration of the Holy Communion and we should in our respective parishes encourage the more frequent celebration of the same. Moreover, we should know "The Order for Holy Communion," know the words and especially the congregational responses, know the name and purpose of each part, know how to participate and make its petitions and thanksgivings our very own.

CONCLUSION

We have The Book of Worship. As a tool or means of common, or congregational, or corporate worship it is entirely adequate. But like all other tools it is designed for use. Let us use it in the home and in the pew, use it constantly and faithfully until The Book of Worship becomes our way of worship throughout the entire Evangelical and Reformed Church. And may I suggest that we will be better able to understand and use The Book of Worship if we procure from the Eden Publishing House in Saint Louis or The Heidelberg Press in Philadelphia a copy of "A Handbook on Worship—An Interpretation of The Book of Worship of the Evangelical and Reformed Church." Despite its limitations, a careful reading and study of this Handbook will make us more efficient in the use of that splendid tool which is ours—The Book of Worship.

And as we come to know and to use the best in our worship heritage the Evangelical and Reformed Church will increase in unity and in strength. Then with one accord we all shall worship the Lord our God. "Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honor and glory for ever and ever." And may we hear the farmer and the worker and the teacher and "all the people say, Amen."

THE CHURCH FOLLOWS ITS STUDENTS

BY HAROLD H. WILKE

"Whither thou goest, I will go; where thou lodgest, I will lodge." So runs one of the great passages of the Book. We have made the words symbolic of the love of God; the church has made them symbolic of its own search for the heathen. And now the church again repeats the words, this time to the young of the fold who have decided to attain unto wisdom not in the institutions of the church but in those of the secular world. So, for that great number of young men and women of our church who are going to state-supported universities instead of our denominational colleges, our church has set up a program of student work. The church has not said to these young people, "Either you come to our own schools, or we wash our hands of you." Instead, it has responded like Ruth of old, and the result is that many hundreds of our youth in universities are receiving specific Evangelical and Reformed Church training.

The form of this student church life is varied. It ranges from pastoral care of a few students in a near-by school, to full-fledged participation by students in, by, and for their own church.

At Columbia, Mo. is the Student Chapel, pioneering effort of our denomination to give our students the attention which the Wesley, Westminster, and other foundations give the Methodist, Presbyterian, and other students.

The Chapel, modified Gothic in design, and said by several professors of architecture to be the truest building in town, gives out a warmth of feeling and calm. A wooden cross tops the steep-sloping roof, to assure the entering worshipper that this is not an English cottage, but the church of God.

Last year ninety Evangelical and Reformed students attended the University of Missouri, and ten attended Stephens College. In some years the total school attendance has been as high as 125. This year, on the eve of registration, it seems that the war and war industries have taken away many of our young people.

In addition, there are eight or nine local families with an Evangelical and Reformed background, who attend the Chapel. The student membership and attendance, however, is much larger than the resident membership.

Of these students enrolled in the schools here in Columbia, about seventy per cent are communing members at the Chapel. Local churches in the two Synods sending the most of the students are to be commended for the excellent training they have given these youth, for the sixty-five or seventy students at the Chapel give more to the Chapel than do the five hundred students of the largest denomination to their local student group. In amount of money given, and in terms of participation of potential membership, our Chapel, one of the smallest in numbers, is yet a leader. May this mark of success continue to challenge our Youth Fellowships!

The program of the Chapel is designed to appeal to all types of background and interest. There is a Chapel newspaper and a Chapel Annual for the journalist-minded. There are regular wood-cutting expeditions in which men students replenish the stack of wood for the fireplace; some of the girls have hot coffee and doughnuts for them when they come in. The students' hard work is justified when a Friday or Sunday night finds a group of our young people sitting in a half-circle or stretched out on the rug in front of dancing flames as they sing popular songs and hymns and our own "Chapel Memories."

Although there are but few children among the resident members, the group started up a Sunday School last year for the first time, in order to give religious training to the children and also to provide budding theologians a chance to teach. There is also a confirmation class.

The Chapel choir numbers fifteen students, practices on Friday evenings, and leads the worship on Sunday morning. An important part of its job in the past was to present concerts and worship services at neighboring churches. This activity is now cut, of course.

For those who like to talk, there was the opportunity of taking part in a panel discussion on some religious-political topic, such as "The Peace after the War." These panel discussions were also brought to neighboring churches or conferences.

Occasionally the pastor shares his radio time with some of the most promising students, to afford them the opportunity of talking to the "mike."

To the student of music or the lover of music, ample listening satisfaction is afforded in the use of the record library of the pastor and his wife, a collection of over sixty albums. On Sunday evenings after the service is over, the choice of the group runs to semi-classical material. On weekday afternoons or evenings one or two listeners will play Beethoven's Ninth Symphony in its entirety, or parts of the Bach Mass in B Minor. Radio and chess and ping pong offer light diversion.

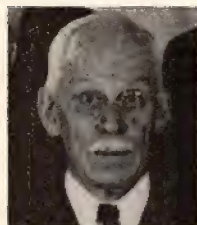

But the group does not live for it.

self alone. Its outreach in the community includes the holding of Tuesday afternoon vesper services for all students under the auspices of the Student Religious Council. With the Chapel used occasionally as a conference center, it has been host to Kirby Page, A. J. Muste, Ivan Gould, and others of like caliber.

The latest of these "ecumenical movements" is the decision to work with the Congregational-Christian students in the schools, since they have no religious worker here. Approved by several of the Congregational officials, the joint effort may well prove a small stepping stone in the direction of church union.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL, INTERNATIONAL EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS ASSOCIATED WITH THE BOARD OF INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

In addition to the institutions under the direct control of the China Mission, the Church is associated in China with five union institutions of learning.

Central China College, formerly of Wu-chang, now refugeeing temporarily at the little town of Hsichow, Yunnan province, in extreme southwestern China, is a union institution in which our educational work of collegiate grade is carried on. We are associated in this institution with the Protestant Episcopal Church of the U. S., the English Congregational Church, the English Methodist Church, and the Christian Association of Yale University. The Department of Education of Central China College has been assigned to our Church. Through the support of the Woman's Missionary Society in previous years a superior laboratory school for practice teaching has been made possible for this Department of Education.

The training of theological students for our China Mission is done in Central China Union Theological Seminary, formerly of Wuchang and now refugeeing in Lingling, Hunan. Our missionary, Dr. Paul E. Keller, is president of this institution.

In Changsha, the capital of Hunan province, were previously located two senior high schools with which we are associated in union with other missions: Yali Boys' High School, a portion of Yale-in-China, and Fuh Siang Girls' High School. These institutions are now refugeeing in Yuanling, the location of the western station of our China Mission.

Through the contributions of the former Woman's Missionary Society the Evangelical and Reformed Church is associated with one of the great interdenominational women's colleges of China, Ginling, formerly of Nanking, now refugeeing at Chengtu, Szechuan.

In addition to these Chinese institutions, the Evangelical and Reformed Church, through the United Mission in Mesopotamia, is associated with the American School for Girls in Baghdad, Iraq.

NAMES AND STATIONS OF MISSIONARIES of the Evangelical and Reformed Church

The names in italics after the post-office addresses of lay missionaries represent the stations at which they are ministering. These names are not part of the post office addresses. The post office addresses of ordained missionaries (and of their wives) will be found in the Register of Ministers, pages 74-105.

LOCATION OF CHURCHES

The location of every congregation of the Church is listed. Where the street location is missing that information was not reported on the statistical blank.

The name of each congregation is exactly as reported by the pastor. It is presumed that this is as the congregation is designated in its charter. For example, we find Saint John, Saint Johns, and Saint John's.

Please send immediately notes of any errors.

William E. Lampe, Secretary.

The surname of the pastor appears after the name and address of each church. Reference to city, town, or state in the "Register of Ministers" will establish identity; where necessary for complete identification, initials have been added.

Information Concerning

M. P. MÖLLER Organs

Federal Law prohibits building new organs "for the duration."

Our large manufacturing plant with all its facilities is now engaged in an extensive war production program. This enables us to retain our entire personnel of skilled artisans.

We are holding our large inventory of organ materials intact and when organs can again be built legally we will be ready to build them.

Despite present conditions we are still and expect to remain ORGAN BUILDERS.

We invite correspondence on all organ matters.

"For People Old and Feeble"

This Home was made possible through the generosity of the late Mr. George C. Pearson, of Smithsburg, Md., and was incorporated September 22, 1930.

Homewood cares for fifteen guests, but among the many on the waiting list are some of our most loyal and faithful members of the church. Because they are old and feeble no one wants them, and many of them must live in neglect. Their lives are just as good and precious in the sight of God as others. Will someone help us to enlarge our present building and equip it for larger and better service?

"Treaty of Lancaster"

In 1762 the Governor of Pennsylvania arranged a treaty with the Indians at Lancaster to effect the release of missionaries held prisoners. The Fund sent representatives "with an order for five hundred pounds" to be paid the Indians upon return of the prisoners. The Treaty of Lancaster is symbolic of the services rendered clergymen for more than two centuries by the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund.

AT THE Treaty of Lancaster the Fund undoubtedly supplied goods to barter for the lives of the captives.

Today, the Fund will supply protection in cash funds.

THE GERMAN PROTESTANT HOME FOR ORPHANS AND OLD PEOPLE

West Grand Boulevard, Detroit, Michigan

Our orphans' and old people's home is situated in one of the most beautiful sections of Detroit. We cordially welcome Evangelical people who may come to Detroit to visit our institution. A Grand River car to West Grand Blvd. will bring them right to the home. . . . The home is under control of the Michigan-Indiana Synod of our Evangelical and Reformed Church and is dependent upon friends within our Church for its support. . . . Our Home is able to accommodate 125 children and 50 old people. To meet our daily requirements is quite a problem at this time of social misery as the conduct for our institution is dependent more than ever before upon the generosity of our friends in the Church. . . . We cordially solicit your interest and express our gratitude to the many friends who have heretofore supported us. . . . Requests must be made in favor of "German Protestant Home for Orphans and Old People, Detroit, Mich." Other contributions will be gratefully received by the superintendent, Rev. F. Lueckhoff, 1852 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Phone: Tyler 5-8800.

Fifty Years of Service and Protection

Fifty years is quite a record. Fifty years of protection when misfortune came, and property was destroyed. Fifty years of prompt payment of losses in full. Fifty years the Mutual Fire & Storm Insurance Association has pioneered with other mutual insurance companies in the saving of lives and property by the prevention of fires. During the past fifty years the Association has served the members of the Evangelical and Reformed Church faithfully, and as we enter the next fifty years the Association will endeavor to continue to serve its members in the same faithful way.

Since insurance plays such a vital part in our American life, the Mutual Fire & Storm Insurance Association is glad that it is a part of this great institution.

Mutual insurance is not only safe insurance but also sound protection, and for that reason, if for no other, the members of the Evangelical and Reformed Church should avail themselves of this sound protection in their Association.

Information will be gladly given if you will write to the
